GPIS Featured Student

This week the GPIS Bulletin introduces Angelia Sanders. Angelia began the MA program in 2005, and has returned to complete her final year.

This time of year, Angelia is busy fundraising for the nonprofit, Tamani Africa, which she and 2 GPIS alumnae, Leslie Harlson and Molly McKnight, founded in 2005.

GPIS Student, Angelia Sanders

After serving as a Peace Corps volunteer in Kenya from 2002 to 2004, Angelia became seriously invested in the development of the village that was her home for more than 2 years. Before beginning the GPIS MA, she worked as a contractor for the Carter Center in south Sudan for nearly 5 months.

These days, when Angelia isn't busy with school work, she can be found around town either attending or organizing fundraising and awareness events.

Once Angelia passes her comprehensive exam, she is moving back to Kenya. Be sure to introduce yourself to Angelia next time you see her around!

Holiday Fundraiser for Children in Kenya

GPIS Student, Angelia Sanders, is selling Christmas/Holiday Cards to benefit her former Peace Corps community in Kenya that is experiencing a 30% HIV rate. HIV has caused many orphans, most too poor to go to school. Purchasing one of these cards helps a child go to school and eat as well. There are cards for $10, which goes to the purchase of a school uniform, and cards for $25 that goes to feeding a student lunch for a year. This is the third year that she and two GPIS alumni have been doing the fundraiser. 100% of your purchase goes directly into the community. Please contact her (asand011@odu.edu) or Melodee Baines (belle_melodee@yahoo.com) or visit www.tamaniafrica.org for more information.

Graduate Writing Assistance Program:

Old Dominion University's Graduate Writing Assistance Program is a resource available to all departments, which provides one-on-one assistance to graduate students interested in learning how to improve their writing. We are also available to assist graduate instructors in class with short workshops on writing related topics. To make an appointment with the Graduate Writing Assistant or to discuss workshop opportunities for your class, please call Writing Tutorial Services at 683-4013 or email directly at epastore@odu.edu

Guest Speaker to present at Naro theater

Dr. Yacob Hailemariam taught at Norfolk State University before returning to Ethiopia to run for Parliament. After winning the election in 2005, he and 38 others were arrested and convicted of political offenses that could carry the death penalty. All of them were identified as Prisoners of Conscience by Amnesty International, imprisoned for peacefully exercising their legitimate rights to freedom of expression and association.

On Dec 5th, there will be an evening with Dr. Hailemariam at the Naro theater. This is an opportunity for students to get a first hand description of the political situation in Ethiopia and surrounding areas.

Sommerhochschule at the University of Vienna

University of Vienna's International Summer Program 2008 will take place from July 12th to August 9th 2008. The four week program offers high level European Studies courses in the morning and German language courses in the afternoon.

The European Studies courses are held in English and focus on the emerging New Europe. They cover political, economic, and legal, but also historical and cultural aspects of the multiple transformations the continent is currently undergoing.

Given the international and interdisciplinary aspect of the International Summer Program, the course offerings are of interest for students from all fields of study, but certainly of special interest for students who concentrate on Europe or study one of the following fields: European Studies, Cultural Studies, History, International Relations, Interdisciplinary Studies, Law (International Law, European Law, Comparative Law), Political Science, Economics, and German.

Students from all over the world have been drawn to the program, not only because of its outstanding academic reputation and the excellent opportunities it offers students to study German, but also because of its location; directly on the shores of one of Austria's most scenic lakes, Lake Wolfgang, in Austria's picturesque Salzkammergut region, and because of the excellent sports and recreational facilities.

The campus life creates an environment which encourages intercultural and social exchange and favours mutual understanding within the international student population. Participants thus broaden their horizon, meet colleagues from different fields of study, make friends for life and build connections for their future professional careers.

Call for Papers: MACLAS 2008

The Middle Atlantic Council on Latin American Studies Conference, "Beyond Borders: New Collaborations", will be held at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County on March 7-8, 2008.

This year's conference encourages panel proposals that advance transnational research perspectives and interdisciplinary approaches. It will also feature a special workshop for graduate students on navigating the job search and the journal submission process.

Please submit a 300-word abstract for individual papers or completed panel proposals in English or Spanish via email (subject heading "MACLAS") no later than December 20, 2007 to the Program Committee co-chairs.

Humanities papers to: Regina A. Root, College of William and Mary, raroot@wm.edu

Social Sciences papers to: Rebecca Bill Chávez, US Naval Academy, chavez@usna.edu

Please include the following information:

- Institution
- Department
- Academic title (Faculty, graduate student, undergraduate student)

For updates on the conference and MACLAS, please see: www.maclas.vcu.edu.

Participants who wish to show Powerpoint slides will need to bring laptops.

Call for Papers: CISS Millennium Conference

The Eighth International CISS Millennium conference hopes to enhance our collective understanding and appreciation for both the realities and the promise of the 21st century. Proposals for papers, panels, and roundtables are invited from scholars, policy makers, members of the military and business communities, and from representatives of non-governmental organizations for the conference to be held in Paris, France, on June 14-16, 2008. The deadline for proposals is December 1, 2007. For more information visit: <http://isanet.ccit.arizona.edu/CISS-Section/Conference2008/CallForPapers.htm>

Call for Papers: Politics of Intellectual Property Workshop

Intellectual property has become an issue of utmost importance in the contemporary global economy. The prevailing regulatory model embodied in international organizations and agreements is informed by a "maximalist rights culture" that has continuously expanded the protection of intellectual property in scope and depth over the last decades.

But with the increasing importance of intellectual property in economic activity, political conflicts are emerging as actors contest the structure, scope, and boundaries of existing legal frameworks of intellectual property rights. These conflicts have arisen most visibly in five areas: biodiversity, public health, biomedical biotechnology, software, research tools, and file sharing. In each of these conflicts, the prevailing maximalist position is fundamentally questioned. This workshop will examine these diverse lines of political conflict.

The workshop will be held from April 11-15, 2008, at the University of Rennes, France. Please submit abstracts by December 1, 2007 to: Sebastian Haunss (sebastian.haunss@uni-hamburg.de) or Kenneth Shadlen (k.shadlen@lse.ac.uk).

For more information visit ECPR at: www.ecpr.org.uk/rennes/workshop.asp.

Call for Papers: "Greater China" in an Era of Globalization

The Hong Kong Institute of Asia Pacific-Studies (HKIAPS) and Association of Chinese Political Studies (ACPS-USA) are co-organizing an international conference at The Chinese University of Hong Kong from July 14-15, 2008. They invite papers which investigate any aspect of "Greater China" in the midst of Globalization. Papers can address the major issues and challenges (including political, economic, social, environmental, legal, foreign policy, regional security and peace, regional and global governance) facing China, HK, Macau, and Taiwan.

Please send proposals no later than December, 31 2007 to Dr. Simon Shen at simonshen@cuhk.edu.hk and Dr. Sujian Guo at sguo@sfsu.edu. Please put "2008 HKIAPS conference paper proposal" in your email subject line. Proposals should include your paper title, names of authors, institutional affiliation, title/position, mailing address, phone number, fax number, e-mail address, and an abstract of 250-300 words. The organizers will provide accommodations for three nights and two days for accepted international participants at the guest house of The Chinese University of Hong Kong.

Berlin Seminar

Bradley University's annual Berlin Seminar will be held from June 22-28, 2008. This program is intended for academics interested in the history and contemporary culture, society, economy, and politics of Germany and Europe. Centered at the European Academy in Berlin-Grünwald, activities include discussions with leaders from the realms of academia, culture, and politics. There will also be guided trips to points of historical and contemporary interest, including a day trip to Dresden. All sessions are conducted in English or with a translator. The cost is $1900, which includes room and board in Berlin, the seminar program, and trips during the week. Applications are due by January 15, 2008.

For further details and an application form, please visit www.bradley.edu/academics/las/his/Berlin/ or contact Dr. John A. Williams at johnw@bradley.edu or 309-677-3182.

Call for Proposals: RISA 5th Anniversary Convention

The Program Committee of the 5th Convention of the Russian International Studies Association (RISA) encourages the submission of papers, panels and roundtables grouped around the theme "View from the Future". The convention will be held September 26-27, 2008, at MGIMO-University, Moscow, Russia. We would be eager to see innovative papers that move beyond the standard research panel format, for example those coauthored by individuals possessing different viewpoints.

The deadline for the submission of proposals is March 1, 2008, to be sent to info@risa.ru.

New Peer-Reviewed Journal

The Berkeley Electronic Press is pleased to announce the launch of a major new peer-reviewed journal: NEW GLOBAL STUDIES (NGS) <http://www.bepress.com/ngs>

New Global Studies is the first journal to approach contemporary globalization as a whole, and across disciplinary lines. It draws from history, sociology, anthropology, political science, and international relations to study the past and present of today's globalizing process. Topics include the patterns and local effects of economic globalization, global media networks, preservation of the global environment, transnational manifestations of culture, and the methodology of global studies itself. New Global Studies is an essential resource: a single journal for those who are interested in global affairs and the contemporary history of globalization, both broadly and in depth.

Discover Turkey: History's Imprint on the Landscape

Professor Christine Drake is pleased to offer this summer study abroad course in Turkey. This course focuses on the legacy of ancient civilizations in a modern world. The class will trace in the landscape the layers of history, the impact of the Hittites, the Greeks, and the Romans, the imprint of Christianity, the remains of the Seljuk Empire, the triumphs of the Ottomans, and the impact of modern Turkey. The course will also examine some of the major challenges facing the country today.

This course considers the pivotal location of Istanbul on the Bosphorus at the entrance to the Black Sea, and how the Hellenic Byzantium was transformed into Constantinople, but then how the city was renamed Istanbul in 1930. Students will learn about the physical landscape as we travel over the great Anatolian Plateau to Ankara, Turkey's capital, see the extraordinary rock formations of Cappadocia, the travertine terraces at Pamukkale, and the beautiful coastlines of the Mediterranean and Aegean Seas.

Students must register and pay for GEOG 495 (undergraduates) or GEOG 595 (graduates) in order to participate in this program.

The course will include:

- Ankara Museum and Hittite sites
- Cappadocia
- Underground cities
- Ancient cities and amphitheatres
- Aphrodisias and Hierapolis
- Limestone cascades in Pamukkale
- Artemis Temple in Sardis
- Ephesus]
- Remains of Troy
- Gallipoli
- Istanbul's Topkapi Palace, Hagia Sophia, and Blue Mosque
- Roman Hippodrome, Grand Bazaar, and churches
- Bosphorus cruise

For more information or an application, contact Prof. Chris Drake, cdrake@odu.edu, in 7022 BAL or the Office of Study Abroad in 113 Dragas International Center.

Call for Papers: Oceanic Conference on International Studies

The school of Political Science and International Studies at the University of Queensland will host the Third Biennial Oceanic Conference on International Studies (OCIS) from July, 2-4 2008. The organizers of OCIS 2008 call for paper and panel proposals to be submitted by December 3, 2007. Proposals are invited in the area of international studies and associated disciplines. Early career researchers and post-graduate students are especially encouraged to submit proposals, and those wishing to contribute from outside the region are also strongly encouraged. Conference participants wishing to organize their own panel are invited to do so. Panels should comprise no more than four presenters and a chair and should ideally include a combination of senior and junior colleagues from different institutions.

Forms and details for the submission of abstracts and panel proposals will be available online. Abstract and paper submissions are to be emailed as attachments to ocis@uq.edu.au.

All submissions received by May 12, 2008 will be sent out for peer review. All submissions need to be 8000 words (maximum length) and consistent with the Author Guidelines (www.tandf.co.uk/journals/authors/cparauth.asp) of the journal Global Change, Peace and Security.

For more details visit: www.uq.edu.au/ocis/.

Call for Papers: The Sixth Annual Graduate Student Conference, March 7-8, 2007

The graduate students of the School of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures at the University of Maryland cordially invite the submission of papers that examine the silencing, and/or erasure of voices from public spaces and the state of the ruins that survive that process, be it in cultural productions or in daily interactions, in the modern era or throughout history.

While the following is by no means an exhaustive or exclusive list of possible topics, we offer it as a way to generate questions for investigation: the process of silencing and/or erasing voices; an examination of silenced and/or erased voices; the denial of discursive spaces through ignorance; power relations as exercised through silence and/or erasure; auto-censorship; a writer’s voluntary silence; endangered and disappearing languages and cultures; exploring and interpreting ruins; or text and culture as ruins. We welcome proposals from a literary, comparative, historical, cultural, linguistic, language acquisition and/or interdisciplinary approach from any time period. Papers shall be presented in English.

Presentations will be selected for inclusion in the conference program on the basis of merit. All submissions must contain the following information for all proposed speakers: name, affiliation, e-mail address, mailing address, phone and fax number, and title of paper or presentation.

Please send a 150-200 word abstract by e-mail attachment (Word preferred) before December 21, 2007 and any inquiries to the following address:

sllc2008conf@gmail.com.

Please address all inquiries and submissions to:

THE GRADUATE PROGRAM IN INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Norfolk, VA 23529-0086 (757)683-5700

Old Dominion UNIVERSITY

Jobs and Internships

Managing the Atom Project Fellowship

The Managing the Atom Project (MTA) is seeking applicants for our fellowships in nuclear policy for the 2008-2009 academic year. The application deadline for the fellowships is January 15, 2008. Additional information can be found at: <http://www.belfercenter.org/fellowships/overview.html>

MTA offers both pre- and post-doctoral fellowships to graduate students, scholars, and government and other professionals working in private or nonprofit organizations interested in key issues affecting the future of nuclear energy, nuclear nonproliferation, and nuclear weapons. Fellowships are for one academic year. A limited number of non-salaried fellowships for candidates with outside support may also be arranged.

Who Should Apply?

Researchers interested in nuclear policy issues such as: the prevention of nuclear and radiological terrorism; regional challenges to nuclear nonproliferation in East Asia, South Asia, and the Middle East; improved control over and detection of the spread of centrifuge technologies; the future of civilian nuclear power in Russia and elsewhere; the global future of the nuclear fuel cycle; strengthening global safeguards and export control systems; and technical and policy steps toward the prohibition of nuclear weapons are particularly encouraged to apply.

Past fellows have come from a variety of and a diverse set of countries. Women and under-represented minorities are encouraged to apply.

The Fellowship

Fellows are expected to use their time here at Harvard to complete work on at least one major publication. Pre-doctoral fellows are expected to make substantial progress in completing their dissertation. Fellows are also expected to participate in the broader intellectual life of the MTA community.

For more information on the Managing the Atom Project, visit our website at www.managingtheatom.org.

Helsinki Commission Internship

The Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe is seeking highly-motivated, self-starting individuals for its internship program.

Interns for the Helsinki Commission research Helsinki Final Act-related issues on human rights, religious liberties, corruption and rule of law, and free media; communicate with House and Senate offices regarding pending foreign policy initiatives; assist staff advisors with hearings and briefings; assist the communications director with media coordination and press conferences; compile press clippings of articles on developments in the OSCE region; maintain awareness of NGO activities; and conduct standard office duties.

Qualified Helsinki Commission internship candidates should have a keen interest in learning more about international affairs and the inner-workings of Congress. Intern applicants must be U.S. citizens. At the conclusion, interns will have gained invaluable experience in one of the nation's most unique federal agencies.

Application Requirements

Internships are unpaid and generally for one semester. Summer internship applications are due no later than March 15th. A letter indicating your interest and the hours you're available to work, accompanied by a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, a list of references and a 2-3 page writing sample of your choice, should be addressed to:

Intern Coordinator
Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe
234 Ford House Office Building
3rd & D Streets, SW
Washington, DC 20515

RCUK Fellowship on the theme 'China, Globalisation and Resistance'

The University of Nottingham in the UK is seeking to fill a five year research fellowship on 'China, Globalisation and Resistance'. Applications are invited for the above named fellowship (one of three in this area), and the second to be located in the Centre for the Study of Social and Global Justice, which is part of the School of Politics and International Relations. The Centre brings together political theorists, specialists in global political economy, social movements and development. Current collaborative projects include 'Global Civil Society'; 'Social Movements in the Developing World'; and 'Theories of Justice and Injustice'.

At the end of five years, it is anticipated that the fellow will be appointed to a permanent position in the School. Candidates should already have completed a doctorate, or be very close to doing so. They should supply a brief outline (i.e. 2000 words) of the research they intend to undertake with their application, together with an account of the dissemination and publishing strategy to be pursued.

The School of Politics & International Relations runs several research centres and institutes, among them the Institute of Asia Pacific Studies <http://www.nottingham.ac.uk/politics/Research/Centre-IAPS.php>
