

Guidelines for Senior Integrative Project Report:

The following guidelines apply to the following IDS programs:

- Individualized Interdisciplinary Studies
- Work and Professional Studies
- Music Business / Production, and
- Zoological Parks Management

Students in these programs may choose to complete the Senior Integrative Project requirement through IDS 368: Internship; IDS 493 E-Portfolio; or IDS 497 Individualized Senior Project. As part of the requirements for each of these courses a final report demonstrating interdisciplinary understandings and skills is required.

To demonstrate your interdisciplinary understanding and / or skills this report must include the following:

The Introductory section of the student's Senior Integrative Project will contain (1) a description of the questions, theories, methods and data relevant to each of three disciplines being applied in the student's program, and (2) a paragraph highlighting similarities and differences across the disciplines.

In the Body of the student's Senior Integrative Project Report, the student will be able to show how at least three different disciplines provide the student with (1) understandings of specific aspects of the student's program theme; and / or (2) specific skills associated with the student's program theme.

In the Conclusion to the student's Senior Integrative Project Report students will demonstrate their ability to `step-back` from the individual disciplines and courses making up their program, make conclusions, and demonstrate an understanding or interpretation of their interdisciplinary experience.

Bibliography / References of report on student's senior integrative project will contain at least 4 sources (e.g., journal articles, reports, books) reflecting at least 3 different disciplines related to the student's program theme.
